Vision problems are a growing concern and affect both young and elder people. Before we get right to the nitty gritty details, letâ??s look at a few eyesight health statistics from the CDC Website.

- About 12 million Americans of 40 years of age or higher have vision problems
- 93 million adults are at a high risk of serious vision loss
- Vision problems among individuals 40 years or older contribute to more than $145 billion in economic losses
- Vision problems cause significant problems such as suffering, loss of productivity, and reduced quality of life
- More than 70% of study participants said that they believe vision loss would have the greatest impact on their day-to-day life

These statistics are concerning. If you have vision problems, are worried about early signs, or just want to ensure that you have optimal eye health, this article is for you. We look at ReVision, one of the best-promoted eye health products in the market right now, and let you know whether it is what you need to ensure near-perfect vision.

ReVision Ingredients

Revision contains key ingredients that work together to enhance the synergy between eye and brain health.

- Huperzine-A â?? this is an extract from the Huperzine Serrata plant, which is native to Eastern Asia. This ingredient has been used in ancient Chinese medicine since time immemorial. It helps breakdown a chemical known as acetylcholine in the brain, thus enhancing memory and learning.

Additionally, Huperzine-A is believed to treat symptoms associated with Alzheimerâ??s disease and poor memory.

- Alpha GPC â?? this is a special chemical that is released after breakdown of soy and similar plants. It produces acetylcholine and helps improve memory, thinking skills, and the ability to learn and recall information.
- Phosphatidylserine â?? supports cognition and brain health (memory, concentration, and focus). This chemical is also manufactured in the body but in low quantities, thus the need for supplementation. It also helps with ADHD and Alzheimerâ??s.
- L-Theanine â?? this is an amino acid variant that has been associated with improved alertness and calmness. It relieves anxiety by increasing population of neurotransmitters that make you feel calm.
- L-Tyrosine â?? this is another amino acid that stimulates mood, memory, and optimal cognitive function. Many specialists believe L-Tyrosine to be a precursor of adrenaline, dopamine, and norepinephrine. In the context of eye health, this ingredient helps regulate the eyeâ??s natural pigment.

Along with these ingredients, the ReVisionâ??s description also mentions B-Vitamins, but does not clarify exactly what type of B vitamins are used in the supplement.
